

Bill Anderson, To Be Alone

(Billy Vaughn)

(To be alone) to be alone
(With just a memory) with just a memory
This is my destiny to be alone
(You left me here) you left me here
(With just these walls to see) with just these walls to see
I know you meant for me to be alone.

You left me to be alone
But there's one thing that you didn't count on Something far beyond your imagination
I knelt and I prayed
And I received a much
Much deeper consolation.

And now I share a greater love
You see it's not so bad for me to be alone
With my head bowed down on my knees
I prayed and I cried
And He dried my tears
And He promised me
That He'd forever be at my side.

He'll be my friend beyond eternity
It doesn't worry me to be alone...
