

Bill Anderson, Your Love Blows Me Away

Your love blows me away like a breeze blows across the meadow
Like a trade wind blows across the bay your love blows me away

Your love shows me a world most men have never seen or dreamed of
Your love brings me a song no one else could ever sing a song of sweet love
Loving you takes my breath away till there's nothing left to say
Unless I could say hey your love blows me away...

Watching the stars fall from the skies
We must have closed our eyes cause now it's morning
Kissing the dew from your face I fall into your embrace where it's so warm
Loving you takes my breath away...
Your love blows me away...
