

Billie Jo Spears, You Could'nt Even Light His Candle

As soon as you found out that he was out of town
You thought that just for old time sake you could come around
One look in your eye tells me that you came to bring shame into our home
With heaven my witness I want you to write something down
You couldn't even light his candle
Or strike the match that's started the fire that's burning just for him
I'm his and only his to touch or handle and you couldn't even light his candle [steel]
You couldn't even light his candle...