

Bird York, Had A Dream

He comes undone says he's lost the map his life was on says everything is unraveling I take his hand and then I kiss him like the world is ending and say "where logic ends, faith begins"
'cause I had a dream that our hearts were like flowers opening up everytime that we love and I'm wondering if we just try and risk everything for love how can we ever go wrong Embrace this life every punch and kiss on this wild ride the end could be a moment away we're strong enough yeah, we get knocked around but we get up
'cause it's hope that's flowing through these veins
'cause I had a dream
that our hearts were like flowers opening up
everytime that we love
and I'm wondering if we just try and risk everything for love
how can we ever go wrong Nobody said it would be easy nobody said it would be fair all we can do is try to keep our fears from running us just let our innocence be our cure