

Black, Birthday Night

We sat and talked for hours
Around the ragged table
Giggling like crazy
We fell about like little children
Helpless with laughter
We must have laughed for hours
It must be time for homework
It must be time to sleep
Time to end this birthday evening
This birthday night
Beautiful birthday night
Tears like tiny diamonds
Dancing in the candle light
We cried so hard with laughing
A winters worth of tears
I only know what you told me
And what you told me is not true
What the hell does it matter?
Or who the hell are you
It must be time for homework
It must be time to sleep
Time to end this birthday evening
This birthday night
It must be time for homework
It must be time to sleep
Time to end this birthday evening
This birthday night
Beautiful birthday night
It must be time for homework
It must be time for homework
It must be time for homework
It must be time for homework
It must be time for homework
It must be time to sleep
Time to end this birthday evening
This birthday night
It must be time for homework
It must be time to sleep
Time to end this birthday evening
This birthday night
Beautiful birthday night
It must be time for homework
It must be time for homework
It must be time for homework
It must be time for homework
