Black Lab, Remember

it was wild in the street wild in the night blistering cold in the cold daylight i could feel your hands pushing hard on me and all the fights that i tried to fight fair all the nights that you spent with me i swear

do you remember?
'cause i remember?
'cause i remember what you said to me remember like it was just some dream but i lost my faith did you lose yours too? would you bleed for me? i would bleed for you and the blood gets thick at the end of the night you in my sheets like a sodium light i could feel your skin coming off your soul reeling me in like there's nothing you don't know and i won't speak i won't write i won't call you on the phone won't listen to my mind if i hear you call me home
