

Black Milk, Please Don

got a vicar with a dice to see the world is not my size to breed a creed that keeps my mind from off this world for sure there's a traitor without fear screamin' truths into my ear yes I've surely got your point; please stay away anyhow

please don't say you care, please don't say you dare please don't say you understand what I demand when all you see is nothing but your gain so don't try to make me believe you care got a devil deep inside - take my hand when worlds collide to lead aside from all the views that penetrate my mind far to sell my inner soul - earn some money, gain control but lately I have come to hear me talkin' to myself

please don't say you care, please don't say you dare
please don't say you understand what I demand
when all you see is nothing but your gain
so don't try to make me believe you care

there must be something else - far away there must be more to this - somewhere in my dreams is it hiding in my sleep ? am I made to never know ? where to go

please don't say you care, please don't say you dare
please don't say you understand what I demand
when all you see is nothing but your gain
so don't try to make me believe you care
don't try to make me believe you care
don't try to make me believe you care