

Blackened, Black Rose

Nevermore will she try again to breathe broken and torn she lies down here beneath the limes that forever stand as mournin' guards to tell everyone of her broken heart

Once a day the black roses leaves began to fade cause someone hurt her stem in a game that he had played never would the wound heal inside her heart withered was the rose and slowly fell apart

Now I'm tellin' you a secret that no one does know did you ever wonder where her soul did go take a look to the place where she lay down a beautiful black rose already has grown