Blackhawk, Always Have, Always Will

(Dave Robbins)

I used to think that love was just for dreamers That fate and destiny played no part But finding you has made me a believer That we were meant to be right from the start

Before the sun and moon and stars Were put there in the sky Before the mountains stood tall Above this world so high I loved you then, I love you now And I'll love you until Always have, always will

Before the light broke through the dark You were the candle in my heart Before the dawn of time I was yours and you were mine

Before the sun and moon and stars Were put there in the sky Before the mountains stood tall Above this world so high I loved you then, I love you now And I'll love you until Always have, always will Always have, always will...
