Blackmail, Airdrop

Every drop rattled till it stopped shining through a misty light you felt so insecure that night youve lost the map but the way out here is trapped pure inside enough to see pure enough to disagree fall into the stain the stars they used to drain until it rains

Your tears have turned the water black you just stumble and wait for the attack Your hands protect your eyes Im sure youve lost your speech but things dont happen before theyve come to grief...