

Blaze Bayley, A Crack In The System

We don't belong we have no home and see no boundaries in this delighted world
When we have no certainty
they question our existence
Our right to live and breathe
The questions without answers
The answers without questions
a catch-22 system
We are trapped down in a crack in the system
crack in the system
Our DNA and fingerprints and numbers day to day feed into their machines They're eating all our dreams
they question our existence
Our right to live and breathe
The questions without answers
a catch-22 system
We are trapped down in
a crack in the system
crack in the system
I believe we are so much more than they can see than just a game of words and codes They send us back and forth and round and round we go but deep inside we're never moving at all
When we have no certainty
The questions without answers
a catch-22 system
a crack in the system
crack in the system
