Blind Guardian, The Bard's Song - The Hobbit

Out in the distance There's so much gold The treasure that I've found Is more than enough Far to be the hill we've to go Over the mountain and seas To the old hill Where the old dragon sleeps Blind in the dark dungeon's night So God please take me away from here And Gollum shows the way right out (Solo) Ì'm alive The dying dragon brought trouble and pain And horror to the halls of stone I'll take the mighty stone And leave the dwarves behind Ice and fire and forest we passed And horror in the halls of stone Trolls in the dark The dawn took them all Caught in the wood By the wooden kings' men But now I'm alone 'Cause I've made up my mind By the spell of gold The king under the mountain Will risk the great war Oh what a fool He's losing control So I am trying to find a way Blind in the dark dungeon's night Then darkness comes from the northern side And Thorin clears his mind
