

Bliss 66, Summertime Waits

Where are you now?
You worry little girl, now you're all grown up
Trying to talk, but I'm a little shook up today
You're older now
I've never seen your face coz I'm always gone
On the road trying to the words to say

But everytime I try to find the words
To say to you to make you understand me

(chorus)
Summertime, it waits for us and I could never say enough
To make you wanna run away
So take my hand and set me free
Tell me we were meant to be
Don't you want to run away

Where are we now
Remembering the days when we would play
Remembering the things that you would say to me
It's colder now
Waste of time, I can't wait no more
I need to find whats behind the door for me

But everytime I try to find the words

(chorus x 2)
Summertime, it waits for us
and I could never say enough
To make you wanna run away
So take my hand and set me free
Tell me we were meant to be
Don't you want to run away

Run away, run away, run away

run away, run away, run away

yeah....
