Bloodshoteye, Deaths Sweet Revenge

All I need is just a bit of some violence The taste of blood for my silence The stench of death for my silence This is the only way I can escape This is the only way I feel any relief Your time has finally come Do you have any last words Thats too bad, you had your chance and now its my fucking turn Now your fate lies in my hands Your fate lies in my hands It's all about to end just leave it alone Don't try and fight its all over I'm in control I have the power To make your life a living hell Or fuck your soul, fuck it to death I'd rather just end it all now It's time we faced the facts You mean nothing to me Game over, all bets off It's time you and I resolve this matter Once and for all We'll see who's laughing when you're buried Six feet underground My addiction is the sound of your screams And the sound of your heart When it finally stops beating Believe me when I say That I can lead you to your grave I am not afraid of taking your last breath away I hope your soul never rests the time has come There's no escaping me Its all torn apart Was it worth your life You had everything taken from you