

Bloody Sunday, There's Nothing Relative About F

how can you say that they meant so much when times got rough you chose to turn your back did you believe that you made the right decision you made your bed i hope you learned your lesson i never would turn my back on anyone i won't follow your example you said you'd always be here but we know that's a lie why did you have to say goodbye you turn your face to hide your eyes your false emotions are your disguise you have to face your fears head on stand and fight for what you love if your enemies are willing to die and you're not willing to fight the battles already lost it's over before it starts though my life may be taken i will defend my own my family won't be forsaken

i will defend my own
my enemies rise up against me
i will defend my own
i am ready to die
i will defend my own
you'll never take me alive i'll die defending my own