

Blue Judy, All The Things You Know

I dont know what to say
Every prayer goes away
And you can try to hold it close
Father, Son, Holy Ghost
You can crawl on your knees
Through the glass of apologies
And you are what you become
Bloody wine, contradiction
For the wrong and for the right
But you cant escape the night
Feather heart measures right
And heavy soul carries fright
Through the streets and the cold
Carry young, bury old
For the wrong and for the right
But you cant escape the night
For the love and for the light
But you cant escape the night
So you try to hold on
But the thread of all your love
And you will let go
Oh you will let go
Every heart has a beat
Some are soft, some are sweet
And of all the things you know
Every heart dies alone
For the wrong and for the right
But you cant escape the night
For the love and for the light
But you cant escape the night