

Blue Six, Love Yourself

you hear another story everyday of some ill fated love that got away and nearly everytime it ends the same when trust is gone, nobody wants the blame you'll find

there's no one left to love you
in time
you learn to love yourself friends are here and friends will be away new lovers kiss, and swear they'll never stray (but they stray) and everynight that party ends the same with too much wine they find that something's changed (and it's changed)

you'll find
there's no one left to love you
in time
you learn to love yourself

you'll find
when no one's thinking of you
it's time
to care about yourself

you saw it on the news the other day a movie star's romantic hideaway and all the time you think they've got it made a year and they're dividing the estate (who gets the kids?)

you'll find
when no one's thinking of you
it's time
to care about yourself

you'll find
when no one's thinking of you
it's time
to care about yourself

feels alright when you start to laugh feels too good just to let it pass scared to say what you want to say tastes too sweet just to end this way