

Bob Catley, Last Snows Of Winter

I sit here with my pictures of you
Memories from our past
Hoping that the pain will end at last

It only seems a moment ago
I heard you laugh so clear
I turn around to find there's no one here

Last snows of winter fall
They hide your footsteps from our door
And I just break down crying

Suddenly you're taken from me
And I'm lost without you now
Trying to find a way
To make it through the days somehow

Echoes from an empty room
We filled with hopes and schemes
All remain unopened endless dreams

I hear you in the summer breeze
You're the warmth of the sun
The ocean waves forever rolling on

Still pray for the reason why you had to die
The anger wells inside
And I just can't stop crying

Suddenly you're taken from me
And I'm lost without you now
Trying to find a way
To make it through the days somehow

It's so hard to carry on
But I know I must be strong
The love I shared with you
I know will see me through
A lifetime without you