Bodyjar, Hideaway

Had this in your mind so long It's time you let your feelings show Are you afraid of what they say Those old cliches

Won't you tell your truth from fact Keep this poison pen intact You just don't know what lurks inside

Now there's wreckage everywhere The pieces of your own despair The things you try to hide away Will turn it's back on you again one day

When I try to speak
Words I might not mean could leak with
Everything I want to say
I can act in line but lie to myself every time with Everything I want to say

Now there's wreckage everywhere The pieces of your own despair The things you try to hide away Will turn it's back on you again one day

Excommunicate yourself
From every thought of reason
Refuse to justify the opposition is yourself
Only yourself

Had this in your mind so long It's time you let your feelings show