

Boilermaker, Tumbleweed

They've turned off the night sky
It's too dark outside
I need two hands to hold me up
Two eyes to cry
Three steps to go before we turn too old
Three moves to make to turn thorns into snakes
But we still sang
Why does the sun always seem to shine on somebody else's side of the sky
If we turn off the light
Tumbleweed will you still roll by
Bad moon on tuesday
Turned blue at eight
We turned blue on tuesday
It's too bad we turned too late
But we still sang
Why does the sun always seem to shine on somebody else's side of the sky
If we turn off the light
Tumbleweed will you still roll by
Open the door of the car
Please let me in i don't want to be stranded again
Don't drive away i can't stand to be stranded again
Turned off the night sky stole light away from me
Turned off the night sky stole sight away from me
But we still sang
Why does the sun always seem to shine on somebody else's side of the sky
If we turn off the light
Tumbleweed will you still roll by
Open the door of the car
Please let me in i don't want to be stranded again
Don't drive away i can't stand to be stranded this way
