Bonzo Dog Band, Can Blue Men Sing The Whites

I was lying in my bed, pull the silken sheets up tight I gotta keep me strength up, gotta do a show tonight. I have a sip of coffee while I'm taking in the news, Ain't gonna have a shave, man, I gotta sing the blues

Then I think I'll get a massage, maybe, lose a little fat, So I have to go downtown in me brand-new Cadillac, My valet comes and dressed me, I light a big cigar, Cos' I like to look like Nimrod when I'm riding in my car.

Can blue men sing the whites? Or are they hypocrites for singing: Whooo ooo oooH,

And now it's getting near the time I gotta make the scene, So I change outta me dark-grey mohair suit, pull on my dirty jeans, The band comes round to pick me up, I holler: "Hang on boys, I gotta mess me hair up if I'm gonna make some noise."

O Lordy, In dem cotton fields, O Mama, Somebody help me, Tell me like it was, Bugga-boo, buggaaah-whoo-oo
