Borknagar, Nocturnal Vision

The path was foreseen
In a feverish dream
and the riddle was shown
To the seven year grown Reaching out for the thread he saw
It would cut through his fingers
As a razor sharp straw

Shaping the untouchable Embracing the none-existable It's force force drains Slide into forever

Surface to surface Nothing between Faling forever The illusion has been But a fragment of time On the thread of life

None shall pass This fiery wall None shall pass No, none at all
