

Bracket, Warren's Song, Part 13 in spite of love, i am suffering once again and disillusion will comfort me until the end i need a sign of your happulence (?) once again behind your sob (?) innocence until the end there is a place that's just for me and for you nothing to face, nowhere to hide from the truth the afterlife will inspire me once again and when i'm gone keep your simple things it's not the end