BrainStorm, Far Away

To miss someone can be the worst experience you ever made. Hold on to your dreams, you will remember the good times, they're waiting for you.

It's been a long time coming I'm tired of failing you, face the truth when you're by my side Choose to be blind Change your mind

I loose my way but still you understand Just hold my hand, and always be so sure Can't you ignore drowning in...in a heartache

Aimlessly rushing leaves you with nothing you need me, I know where I'm going to, Gonna take me there to you nothing more to do

So far away from me Something's comin' over me So far away from me Be forever the man I should be

Another dawn is yet to come Carry on The night has just begun Troubled days have come and gone

How can I prove, that I've done nothing wrong all that I want And it's plain to see Don't blame me When the moon gives it's light, what takes me down to hell I'll fly into a church of dreams, they ring the bell

Hopeless souls, let you down blame on myself, Throw my heart in the wishing well