

Brandon Beal, October

Me and my baby had something that was endless.
I never thought that she had, cause she was the one for me.
But that led to me going out like every weekend.
With another shorty creeping, like she was nothing to me.
And it was like May when my baby went away.
Around June I knew I was so in love with you.
Around July you had to torture me?
And it was like August, when I felt that we, were just slowly starting to fade away.
And you made a decision when September came.
And it's a lot colder, cause October she said that it was over.
(My ride to die, my future wife, walked out my life)
October, I never thought of you saying that it's over.
(How can I, go back in time, erasing my October)
October.
Speechless, that's all I'm really left with, cause I can't find words to explain how I ended up like this.
If I can do it all again, before I decided to take a chance.
And jeopardizing my relationship, here's what I would've did.
See baby in May, you would've went away.
Cause in June I could've have spent so much time with you.
And in July I wouldn't have a heartbreak.
Than in August, I'd get on my knee and I'd ask you "Would you marry me?"
Then you, would've never looked for love again.
But it's a lot colder, cause October she said that it was over.
(My ride to die, my future wife, walked out my life)
In October, I never thought of you saying that it's over.
(How can I, go back in time, erasing my October)
So tell me how I get back where I started, where I started.
Somebody tell me how I get back where I started, where I started.
It's like 31 days into May. (May)
And then June and July I threw away. (Ay)
In that short amount of time, you sneaked away from me.
It's a lot colder, cause October she said that it was over.
(My ride to die, my future wife, walked out my life)
In October, I never thought of you saying that it's over.
(How can I, go back in time, erasing my October)
(I never thought of cheating, cause she was the one for me)