

Brazil, I.O.

One wore white
The other dressed in red
One invincible
The other fell down and bled
One to touch your face
The other to wipe the sweat
One to know your name
And the other not just yet

One day calm broke the silence
And I heard my voice in the audience
And it said "look at my face"
One day calm broke the silence
I wear my nerves on the outside
And hide them under my...

There's no one out there, I know
Her eyes were gleaming in I.O.
And I'm still breathing on my own
The thoughts are leaving one by one

One stood by
While the other came and went
The other flew away
So she couldn't fall out again
One to let you know
The other to make you wait
Worlds across the fence
And they're traveled every day