

Bread, I Don't Love You

I Say Again

(James Griffin & Robb Royer)

I say again

You didn't hear me once again

So I'll have to say again

I knew you when

You didn't crawl behind your wall

Can you hear my voice at all

Must I have to say it again

I'm filling up the room with all the words I've said

Hoping that one or two will make it through

And get inside your head

I say again

You didn't hear me once again

So I'll have to say again