

Brenda Lee, In the garden

I come to the garden alone While the dew is still on the roses
And the voice I hear, falling on my ears