

Brettell, Taken Control

some time later
I walked in the day
And I thought, 'I don't really care no more'
And the other, day later, thought about this
And I knew, yeh, 'what am I thinking for'

I've taken control of this life
I've taken control of this life
I've taken control of this life
Well the thoughts, that assembled
For the lyrics, that I wrote down
Everyone kicked and moved
And the listener, told a lecturer
'that's the last one, of these lyrics,
You're ever gonna listen to.'

I've taken control of this life
I've taken control of this life
I've taken control of this life

Well then, some weeks later
I went driving out of town
You never heard from me no more
And there aint been, no lyrics
For a long time, maybe never
But you don't know for sure!
I've taken control of this life
I've taken control of this life
I've taken control of this life
