

Brian Webb, Talk To You

(Chorus)

Its a place at the end of the road, and there is a time after every show where I don't want to talk to no one Well you say, 'At least someone is loving you', I know.
I just think they need a better reason though and I don't want to talk to no one I just wanted to talk to you

Well you search for love and you search for happiness
And you come to find, there is a difference
So you search for wisdom and you search for truth
And all you find is quiet, maybe it finds you

(Chorus)

"Its the (sweetest) sadness not a kin to pain and resembles sorrow only as mist resembles the rain"
Its a silence that you can almost hear Its a love that you could almost fear, but you don't have to

(Chorus)

You've been holding all of this in, so you start holding out for something new, I'm sure. We all figure (hope) there is something more But if you are miserable when you find what is true Then maybe truth, that wasn't ever what you were really looking for may it find you though

(Chorus)2x