

Bridge and Tunnel, Location, Location, Location

This town is falling, but the papers say it's "up and coming";
And when it gets here who is left?
Just another college party in the new "cool part of town";
It's time we recognize our part in this displacement.
We're the new problem in the old "bad part of town";
just the shitheads next door talking about what a great deal we found.
I want to be aware of this community,
not just a fucked up part in this fucked up power-play.
And I can't escape my part in this or the fucked up feeling that comes with it.
Everybody needs a home.
