

Bright Eyes, Neely O'Hara

in the morning when you throw up water and your skin turns a pale pale yellow well everyday you lose more color do you think that someone paints your mirror? so you think that things sound different at the time when you speak well there are visions much clearer than these blurs that you see and like neely o'hara you swallow your sleep and wake up in the morning to find out you are not who you used to be you don't recognize the behavior or the spelling of your name and the shape that is in the mirror well you'd swear it is not the same and like neely o'hara you swallow your sleep and you really can't remember but you know you are not think you are not no you are not who you used to be