

Bright Eyes, We Are Nowhere And It

If you hate the taste of wine why do you drink it till you're blind?
And if you swear that there's no truth and who cares how come you say it like you're right?

Why are you scared to dream of God when it's salvation that you want?
You see stars that clear have been dead for years but the idea just lives on

In our wheels that roll around as we move over the ground And all day it seems we've been in between the past and future town

we are nowhere and it's now
we are nowhere and it's now
and like a ten minute dream in the passenger's seat while the world was flying by I haven't been gone very long but it feels like a life time

I've been sleeping so strange at night Side effects they don't advertise I've been sleeping so strange with a head full of pesticide

I've got no plans and too much time
I feel too restless to unwind I'm always lost in thought as I walk a block to my favourite neon sign where the waitress looks concerned but she never says a word just turns the juke box on and we hum along and I smile back at her

And my friend comes after work
When the features start to blur
She says these bars are filled with things that kill by now you probably should have learned

Did you forget that yellow bird?
How could you forget your yellow bird?
She took a small silver wreath and pinned it on to me she said this one will bring you love and I know that's not true but I keep it for good luck.
