

Brightwood, In Memory

&lt;!-- you say the hurting is over it feels like your back from the dead still i can't believe its over and i can't get your sight, your scent from my head it seems like these moments are lasting forever the times when we felt so alive you carried my heart in the midst of this battle in your hands this time i won't try to reach you you're already too far gone you slipped past, i didn't notice did we ever sing the same song?

two lives, two books of illusion a chapter in the lessons of time a story you wrote in one season came to an end in one night remember those times when we started believing everything would be alright i carried my heart in the midst of this battle in your hands in your hands

in your hands

this time i won't try to reach you
you're already too far gone
you slipped past, i didn't notice
did we ever sing the same song?
did we ever sing the same song?
did we ever sing the same song?

and i'll wait for you
and i'll become something new
and i'll wait for you
until this dream comes true

and i'll wait for you
and i'll become something new
and i'll wait for you
until this dream comes true
comes true
--&gt;