

Bring Me The Horizon, True Friends

I wouldn't hold my breath if I was you
Cos' I'll forget but I'll never forgive you
Don't you know, don't you know?
True friends stab you in the front
It's funny how
Things work out
Such a bitter irony
Like a kick right to the teeth
It fell apart
Right from the start
But I couldn't even see
The forest for the trees
(I'm afraid you asked for this)
You got a lot of nerve
But not a lot of spine
You made your bed
When you worried about mine
This ends now
I wouldn't hold my breath if I was you
Cos' I'll forget but I'll never forgive you
Don't you know, don't you know?
True friends stab you in the front
I wouldn't hold my breath if I was you
You broke my heart & there's nothing you can do
And now you know, now you know
True friends stab you in the front
It's kind of sad
Cos' what we had
Well it could of been something
I guess it wasn't meant to be
So how dare you
Try and steal my flame
Just cos' yours faded
Well hate is gasoline
A fire fuelling all my dreams
(I'm afraid you asked for this)
You can run
But you can't hide
Time won't help you
Cos' karma has no deadline.