BROCKHAMPTON, The Family

Motherfuckers be sayin'
"Say this but don't, don't say like that though
Say it this way
'Cause you gotta think about all of us, representin' all of..."
Motherfuckers be
Motherfuckers be the niggas I came up with
Motherfuckers meanin' myse-

I know I should've called you sober 'Cause I'm right back on my own Devil on my shoulder laughin' Sayin', "Kevin, don't forget you're alone"

Y'all know it's like, y'all got families But it's so different from my family from Texas I know it's like this but it's so different Merlyn sold the Sugar video as if I sold my soul to the devil In some ways I guess I did because my momma still livin' in the ghetto But any extra signs, yo, yo, that was our own purpose But I get it 'cause it gets dark whenever Hollywood opens the curtain I was way less vanilla when I was still a Texas nigga I was way more Christian when I was still a mormon nigga I was a hungrier artist when Postmates ain't deliver to our house in the Grand Canyon In a mansion, with some niggas I can't stand, man But I gotta hold it down for my new fan, man I gotta hold it down, and hold my stance, man God bring me a different band, man As the checks flew, it became harder to leave Everybody got an ego now, imagine bein' me Competition started off so healthy 'Til one day I looked up like, "Damn, you almost better than me" I don't feel guilty for wakin' you up when you sleep I don't feel guilty for cuttin' your verse from this beat I don't feel guilty for heat you caught from my tweets That project I teased from my lack of empathy I feel free when I drink, you don't know shit about me Y'all don't shit about me, y'all don't know shit about me Quit talkin' shh

I know I should've called you sober (You sober)
'Cause I'm right back on my own
Devil on my shoulder laughin'
Sayin', "Kevin, don't forget you're alone" (You're alone)

Okay, I said my piece
The whole room goes silent
Who do I turn to when my thoughts get violent?
When my voice goes hoarse, and we all stop cryin'
We said we'd do this shit for life, now I'm the last one's tryin'
I know what it's like but it's so different

You tried to keep it alive Oh, oh-oh, oh I'll be fine

Woo You tried to keep it alive I'll be fine Oh, yes, you did Woo