

Brolle Jr, There's A Rock

The night is calling out your name sharp
Like an arrow aching pain
But you escaped the tears I cry escaped the misery of mine
I close my eyes and dream of you cause
There's a fire that never will burn out

There's a rock fallin from my heart
When you call my name
And the world around us falls apart
But we stays the same

We were togheter night and day
We use to share a million dreams
We had a language of our own
We were the lovers in the night
Still close my eyes and dream of you
Cause there's a river that never seems to dry
