

Brooke Allison, Follow Your Heart

"who's to say the rules must stay the same forevermore whoever made them had to change the rules that came before so make your own way show the beauty within when you follow your heart theres no heart you can't win so reach for the sky its not as high as it seems just follow your heart go as far as your dreams dare if you want to, don't fear the fall take a chance, it's better than to never chance it all there's a world full of changing and you've just begun don't let them tell you it's simply not done when you follow your heart you'll shine bright as the sun