

Bruce Cockburn, In the falling dark

And the lights lie tumbled out like gems the moon is nothing but a toothless grin floating out on the