

Buddahead, Take It All Away

I throw myself into the city lights.
Where the streets sound like a radio
There's zero space and just a little time.
Too many faces for the show.

I've just tried to bring you down.
I've just tried.

I throw it all to you, you give it all away.
I throw it all to you, you take it all away.

Other voices they just fill the mute.
Is there somewhere I could be?
Random corners take me somewhere new.
So what if I'm losing me.

It brings me down to call you back.
It brings me down.

I throw it all to you, you give it all away.
I throw it all to you, you take it all away.

"Say goodbye."
"Learn to walk away."

I learned to say goodbye and I turned to walk away.
