

Buddy Holly, I Gambled My Heart

When you've loved someone and then found you've lost why must a true heart be left to pay the cost

Why must a heart that has been true be broken and sad - so empty and blue

I gambled my heart and I lost it to you now I'll spend my life wondering why I love you someday you'll know - why I'm so blue when you've gambled your heart and you've lost it too

Why must it be the one you want most of all they'll build you up and then let you fall they'll lead you on - you'll think that they're true they'll love you then leave you so empty and blue