Building 429, No One Else Knows

My world is closing in On the inside But I'm not showing it When all I am is crying out I hold it in and fake a smile Still I'm broken I'm broken Only one can understand And only one can hold the hand Of the broken Of the broken

When no one else knows how I feel Your love for me is proven real When no one else cares where I've been You run to me with outstretched hands And You hold me in your arms Again

I need no explanation of why me I just need confirmation Only You could understand the emptiness inside my head I am falling I am falling I'm falling down upon my knees To find the one who gives me peace I am flying Lord I am flying

When no one else knows how I feel Your love for me is proven real When no one else cares where I've been You run to me with outstretched hands And You hold me in Your arms Again

I have come to you in search of faith Cause I can't see beyond this place Oh You are God and I am man So I'll leave it in Your hands