

Building 429, Now That It's Over

I brace my heart for the relapse
Im waiting now for the shame
Ive been somewhere and I wont go back again

Im holding out for some mercy
Im praying that youll forgive
Ive said something and I cant take it back again

Im sorry now, now that its over
Your world crashed down, and I ran for cover
Im sorry now, now that its over

How I wanted to show the way
So I pushed you aside I wanted to save the day, but I let you cry

How I stood there so silently
And let the moments pass by
I was too late to change the phrase and it crushed your life

Im sorry now, now that its over
Your world crashed down, and I ran for cover
Im sorry now, now that its over

We all want to lead but were falling behind
Everyone wants to save themselves
We all want to lead but were falling behind
Everyone wants to save themselves