

Building 429, Searching For A Savior

Just a boy with something in his heart
Says life doesn't add up
The dreams inside
Are telling him, seek and you will find
He caught a ride and left this town
He never came back around
Lord I miss him now but,
He had to reach, to make sense of his world

We are all searching for a Savior
'Cause no one else will do
When the sky is calling you
We are all searching for a Savior
'Cause no one else will do
When the sky is calling you

Another town a half world away
There's a child who just can't stay
Oh something else
Is calling her, to another place
She believes that nothing they could say
Would ever take away the pain
Of living life
Without knowing love, or amazing grace
Something's missing from us all

We are all searching for a Savior
'Cause no one else will do
When the sky is calling you
We are all searching for a Savior
'Cause no one else will do
When the sky is calling you
