Bullgooseloony, Two-Tone Army

hey boy looks like you found your new home subbin' your gun for a saxophone you see everything in black and white and it doesnt really matter whats wrong or whats right just get out your brass and play until late in the night i still remember when you said...

chorus:

im enlisting in the two tone army yea enlisting in the two tone army im enlisting in the two tone army and im marching off to war well boy now all your worries are gone as you put on your hat and get your pinstriped suit on the world, my friend, is at your fingertips now as your up on the stage playin that music so loud and you know (yeah you know) that everythings all right now ill never forget the day you said...
