

BWO, Will My Arms Be Strong Enough

Walking through the empty rooms
The halls and lawns where children used to play
I can write the storyline
From secrets of the past
Looking through the doom and gloom
The chapel where you bent your knees to pray
I can feel a heart resigned
From love that's meant to last.

Now I know what you've been through
The tears you've tried to hide
Let me prove my trust in you
I'll stand right by your side.

Will my arms be strong enough
To take you through the night
Will my arms be strong enough
To lead you to the light
Will my arms be strong enough
To dare you seize the day
Could it be love that gives the strength
To wash our sins away .

Come and leave the past behind
Tonight we're on a journey to the stars
I have seen the promised sign
Where angels fear to fly.

Now I know what you've been through
The tears you've tried to hide
Let me prove my trust in you
I'll stand right by your side .

Will my arms be strong enough
To take you through the night
Will my arms be strong enough
To lead you to the light
Will my arms be strong enough
To dare you seize the day
Could it be love that gives the strength
To wash our sins away .

Will my arms be strong enough
Will my arms be strong enough
Will my arms be strong enough
Will my arms be strong.