

Cadaverous Condition, The Moon And The Scars

dont follow me now the realms of the past make the future look small divided we stand together we fall one question left so I travel back dont follow me now

dont follow me now

always the same the moon and the scars forever remain the moon and the scars again and again the moon and the scars my flight started in the palm of your hand a holiday, a summer, a lifetime to spend out of the black into the night I just never tried places once known are hidden to me now make yourself seen, nightmares know how hidden like your grave I never seem to find

dont follow me now

asleep but never dead

always the same the moon and the scars
forever remain the moon and the scars again and again the moon and my scars and do not follow me now and I will never change and I just never tried and I go back in time (again)