

Caleb Kane, This Close

These swollen faces,
appear below.
From cold, dark places,
I'm scared to go.
They have no secrets,
they tell no lies.
They trade them weakness,
I've seen their eyes.

Someday I'll, need to stand,
tall again, stronger and now be there
to share the pain with you
and you that you're needed to.

You're this close
to your place in the world.
This close and you've almost made it.
All the faces that you've seen,
smile back and point away.
You're this close
and how long you've waited.

I've changed direction,
I've changed my mind.
I've found protection,
to hide behind.
But I'm tired of fighting
'cause that slowly found
these wounded creatures,
they're all around.

Someday I'll, need to stand,
tall again and now be there
to share the pain with you
and you that you're needed to.

You're this close
to your place in the world.
This close and you've almost made it.
All the faces that you've seen,
smile back and point away.
You're this close
and how long you've waited.

Someday I'll, need to stand,
tall again and now be there
to share the pain with you
and you that you're needed to.

You're this close
to your place in the world.
This close and you've almost made it.
All the faces that you've seen,
smile back and point away.
You're this close
and how long you've waited.