

Cancer, Distant Dreams

Tied to a world
Gridlocked inside
Distant dreams
Tease my hollow mind

To cut through mundane life
Yet flounder in the deep
Of a barren canyon
Paved by bores thirsting reprieve

Squabbling in infectious fiends
Floating in induced subduction
Feeds an endless greed
Feeds my worthless being

At times I wonder
What naïve sense lacking wonder
Instead I'm shrouded in distant dreams
There is no other