

Candlelight, Learning To Live

Sadness came to me this morning and woke me up
Whispering: "Don't open your eyes"... But I did
And I saw myself running away
From you
When I closed the door I killed some dreams
But all my sorrows walked away
Now I'm learning to live
I closed the door, I killed some dreams
But all the sorrows walked away
Now I'm learning to live once again
Why do we always have to make choices?
And there is no right way
Why do we have to die a thousand times
Before we go to sleep forever?
When I closed the door I killed some dreams
But all my sorrows walked away
Now I'm learning to live
I closed the door, I killed some dreams
And all my sorrows walked away
Now I'm learning to live
I close my eyes and touch the wind
I know I'm strong like never before
I'm learning to live
I close my eyes and touch the wind
I know I'm strong like never before
And I'm learning to live once again